

The Ideal Form of Living for Women and Men (Germany 1998)

Commentary: The question asked was how men see themselves, how women see themselves, and what women think is true for men. Only one answer had to be chosen, so that all percentages from one group add up to 100%.

Data source: Interviews with 1200 representative men and 800 women through GfK-market research (Nürnberg), researched by the Institut of Social Sciences of the Protestant Church of Germany.

Literature: Paul M. Zulehner, Rainer Volz. Männer im Aufbruch. Schwabenverlag, Ostfildern: 1993. p. 260.